Marietta's Lied from Die tote Stadt ..... E. Korngold

Allegro moderato ..... Franz Josef Haydn (1732-1809)

Erich Wolfgang Korngold was a Viennese composer born in Moravia, (present day Czech Republic) and naturalized in the United States in 1943. He is considered one of the founders of film music. His 1938 Academy Award for his score to The Adventures of Robin Hood marked the first time an Oscar was awarded to the composer rather than the head of the studio music department. He was born to a Jewish family, the second son of an eminent music critic. A child prodigy, Mahler (himself a Jew) called him a "musical genius." At age eleven he composed his ballet Der Schneemann (The Snowman), which became a sensation when performed at the Vienna Court Opera in 1910. In 1920 he completed his opera Die tote Stadt, which became an international success.

Within two years of its premiere it had circled the globe, including performances at the Metropolitan Opera in New York. In 1938, Korngold was conducting opera in Austria when Warner Brothers asked him to come to Hollywood to compose a score for The Adventures of Robin Hood, starring Errol Flynn. (One version is that he was only six hours into a performance of Wagner's Götterdämmerung when an agent from Warner Bros. came onstage masquerading as Brünnhilde and sang an invitation to Hollywood, off-key, in Yiddish. The audience didn't notice, having long since nodded off. I like this version a lot, even though I made it up. I hope it's true.) Shortly after he arrived in California the Anschluss took place, the condition of Jews in Austria became very perilous, and Korngold stayed in America. He said "We thought of ourselves as Viennese; Hitler made us Jewish." He also later stated that the film score had saved his life.

Monday morning, February 22, 2016

Dear Members and Friends,

Before we get to a thought for meditation, I want to give you a very important “public safety” announcement.

If you regularly ride in an automobile, drive carefully because auto crashes are responsible for twenty percent of all fatal accidents. Staying at home doesn’t help because seventeen percent of all fatal accidents occur in the home. Avoid walking on streets or sidewalks because pedestrians account for fourteen percent of fatal accidents. If you travel by public transportation such as air, rail, or water you should be aware that sixteen percent of all fatal accidents involve some form of public transportation.

You will be pleased to learn that only .001% (one-one hundredth of a percent) of all deaths occur in worship services in church/synagogue/mosque, and these are usually related to previous physical disorders. Therefore, logic tells us that the safest place for you and your family to be at any given point in time is at church! Attend church—it could save your life.

Come to think about it, this is worth meditating on... but let me add one single verse of Scripture for coming to church: “One thing have I desired of the Lord, that will I seek after; that I may dwell in the house of the Lord all the days of my life, to behold the beauty of the Lord, and to inquire in his temple.” —Psalm 27:4

See you in church (the healthiest place on the planet),

Ken Feske
