Tracking Time

I was told, "Either you find time, or time will find you,
and it will find you anyway."
I reasoned, if all counters and tellers of time were gone,
time would tell itself.
So, I stalked time on its own ground, and cornered it there,
in a ghost town, whistling.
But when it came time for the showdown, time did not show up.
It is rumored time has turned tail and fled to the foothills.
I follow the trail. The sun goes down.
The moon goes down. The scent grows cold.
I turn back, have pursued time as the tides pursue the moon.

Dear Members and Friends,

Seeing Is Believing

Sight has been the emphasis of the sermons the past two weeks: “Come and See” was the invitation two weeks ago and Sunday it was “The Eyes of Experience.” I hope these quotes prompt valuable thought.

For further reflection:

“You cannot depend on your eyes when your imagination is out of focus.”

—Mark Twain, 19th century

“It is only with the heart that one can see rightly. What is essential is invisible to the eye.”

—Antoine de Saint Exupery, 20th century

“Seeing’s believing, but feeling’s the truth.”

—Thomas Fuller, 17th century

“There are no ‘good’ or ‘bad’ people. Some are a little better or a little worse, but all are activated more by misunderstanding than malice. A blindness to what is going on in each other’s hearts... nobody sees anybody truly but all through the flaws of their own egos. That is the way we all see... each other in life.”

—Tennessee Williams, 20th century

“I believe in Christianity as I believe that the sun has risen: not only because I see it, but because by it I see everything else.”

—C.S. Lewis, 20th century

See you in church,

Ken Feske
