Veterans Day means a lot in my family. My brother and his son both served in the Marine Corps. My father (who died in 2007, age 87) and his three brothers served in the Pacific in WWII. Only three came home. My Dad joined the Navy in 1937, a skinny kid of 17 from east Texas who weighed in just under the limit when he went to enlist. The recruiter told him to go around the corner, buy a bunch of bananas, eat them all and come back in an hour. He did, and spent the next 30 years of his life serving in submarines (18 years), surface ships (6), and in charge of base commissary stores (6). When he graduated as an officer from supply corps school in 1957 a photo was taken in his beautiful new white dress uniform that we proudly displayed in our home. Today I bring it to our "Table of Honor" and invite you to bring a framed photo of your loved one in uniform to join him there. These are our true heroes, whom we can never repay except by the love in our memory of them. We are indeed the lucky ones.

Dear Members and Friends,

The most profound thing I've learned from our Army Captain son is the principle of "no man left behind." In the trenches of Ranger training to the offices of commanders, each soldier is committed to the safety and well-being of his or her fellow soldier. No one is left behind; no one is thoughtlessly put in harm's way. Soldiers protect each other, even if that entails risk to one's own life or professional advancement.

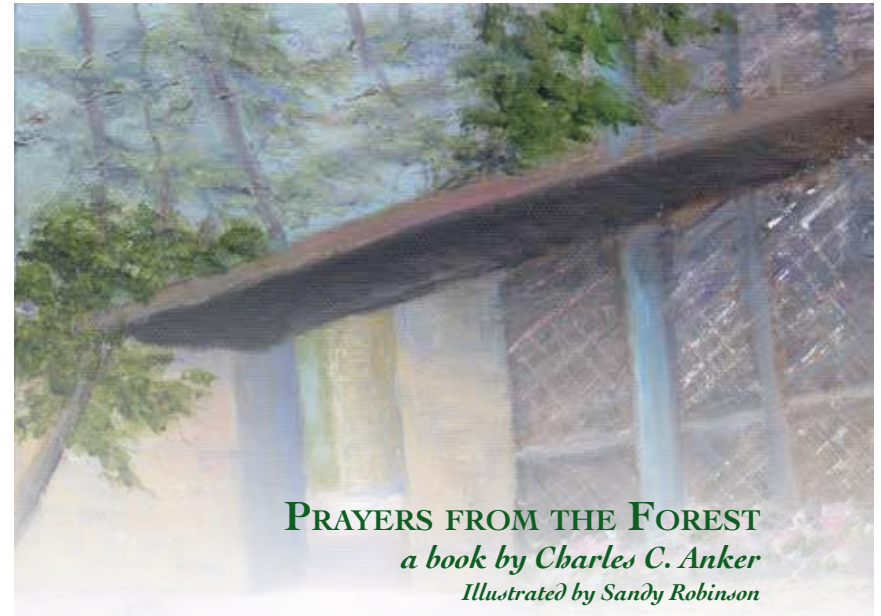

This Sunday we'll honor that spirit of sacrificial service in a Veterans Day-themed worship, with military marches, the Pledge of Allegiance and a sermon, "Band of Brothers."

Please invite your military-related family and friends to this special service. And bring a favorite, framed photo from family military life. We'll display them during our Fellowship Time.

The Rev. Joanne M. Swenson
