It is my great pleasure to welcome Fred Lherminier back to Church in the Forest. This multi-talented guy lived in Monterey in 1998-2000, using the time to do a little engineering consulting, play the oboe professionally, study piano with moi, sing with the Monterey Presbyterian Church choir, study wood-working, and produce a spectacular daughter named Camille, born in 2000. Shortly after her birth the family moved back to France but have retained close ties with their many friends here. It's been about fifteen years since his last appearance at CitF, and I'm exploiting all his talents today.

You can also hear more of him this Sunday (May 17) afternoon at our 4:00 o'clock benefit concert: Le Mariage de la Poésie et de la Musique, where he will play the oboe and the lovely Camille will assist me as page turner. Please give him your warmest welcome!

Dear Members and Friends,

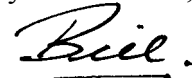

Working with students at Stevenson, I find that many are asking the big questions about life, purpose and meaning. The truth is that at every age we ask such questions and probe for adequate answers.

It's an appropriate question for us all to ask. "What are your greatest gifts? How can you best serve mankind?" These are questions you must answer to find your true purpose in life. For a teenager, the predominant question is: "Who am I?" or "What am I meant to do here?" But for all of us who are a wee bit older it might be: "What am I trying to do with the rest my life?" These are all powerful questions that can be difficult to answer. They sometimes surface during major life transitions such as family strife, job loss, spiritual awakenings, or the death of a loved one. We all respond differently to such questions and life situations.

The truth is that there is only one of you in the universe. You have many obvious gifts and, yes, regardless of your age, other gifts are still waiting to be discovered. However, one of the most important questions you can ask yourself in your journey to find/discover meaning and purpose is, "How may I serve others?" Albert Schweitzer said it well: "I don't know what your destiny will be, but one thing I do know: the only ones among you who will be really happy are those who have sought and found how to serve."

Have a wonderful week and thank you for all the service you give through Church in the Forest and throughout the community. Blessings on you.

See you in church,

William B. Rolland

ANNOUNCEMENT: By the time most of you receive this, the Pastor Search Committee will have met three times, though most of their work is being done by email. They are pleased to comment that after five drafts, they have completed a "Pastor Ad" and have focused on periodicals and websites for posting in all major denominations. They are very appreciative of the congregation's response with the questionnaires and referral notes—those results will be summarized and presented shortly.

In addition, our Dallas congregant, Glorial Wagner, has referred us to a senior officer at the SMU Seminary who has agreed to review the Committee's work and offer referrals.
