Dear Members and Friends,

As we approach this very special time of Thanksgiving we are much more aware that we are people with a history—a connection, and that is something to celebrate. We all remember the words in the song, “Thanks for the Memories,” with which Bob Hope ended his USO show. It is a special time of giving thanks for the richness of our valued memories and those precious people who have walked with us.

Someone has said, “While the past defers to the present and to the future, it is not to be discarded. Only those who know their heritage are qualified to be the new pioneers. In order to claim an inheritance, someone from the past has had to pass on something.” The scripture teaches us, “We have an inheritance which is undefiled,” in that Jesus has gone on before us.

You remember how in John Steinbeck’s great novel, The Grapes of Wrath, a migrating “Okie” family is told not to waste vital packing space on photographs and other items of family history and memories. One of the family members responds, “How will we know it’s us without our past?”

In the Book of Joshua (4:1-7), the heir to Moses instructs the men from each of the twelve tribes of Israel to gather a stone and to lay them in a special place, “as these stones shall be to the people of Israel a memorial forever.” The people of God must never be disconnected from God’s story and actions.

I wish you a wonderful and happy Thanksgiving. Thank you for being part of the church in the Forest, for the many glorious memories we share, so making each of our lives the richer. HAPPY THANKSGIVING!

See you in church,
